PROTEST FROM DREYFUS

LOUISVILLE BALL CLUB MAGNATE SAYS HE HAS BEEN WRONGED.

Col. John I. Rogers Adds to the Controversy by Saying There Is a Conspiracy-Kid McCoy's Health.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 28.-President | keep up a fast engagement from start to Barney Dreyfus, of the Louisville Baseball addressed a letter the National League setting forth the Louisville management that have resulted from the change in the schedule depriving it of eleven Sunday games, six abroad and five at home, and asking them to take action to have the schedule changed. Mr. Dreyfus claims that at the first meeting of the League a schedule was agreed on and practically adopted and that it being understood there was to be no change the Louisville club was not represented at the last meeting, at which the schedule was revised. Mr. Dreyfus says it is either a direct effort to injure the club or a mistake. He further protests, because the schedule will require the team to play double-headers on week days and leaves it idle for forty days. In conclusion he asks the presidents to communicate with President Young, of the League, and endeavor to have the original schedule promulgated and the vote by which the new one was adopted

President Dreyfus left to-night for Washington to seek President Young's co-operation in his fight against the playing schedule adopted by the League magnates last Saturday. Mr. Dreyfus said before leaving that he already had the promise of five other clubs to stick to him. They are New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and litsburg. He said he was trying to get Baltimore in line, and if that club comes over there will be a majority-enough to effect a reconsideration of the schedule. Mr Dreyfus said further that the vote for a regraph and that he would remain in Washington until the Louisville club's alleged wrongs were righted.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 28.-Col. John I. Rogers, of the Philadelphia Baseball Club, said to-day that he believed the action of the National League in changing the schedule as regards the Louisville club was the result of a conspiracy to freeze out the Louisvilles. The conspirators, in his opinion, had the additional object of forcing the League to support or buy out the Cleveland and Baltimore clubs, and possibly to buy out the Washington club. Colonel Rogers also stated that he was of the opinion that the Louisville club had no redress. It requires a three-fourths vote to change the schedule, and he does not believe the necessary majority can be secured. He said party that returned with the ex-secretary further that the Philadelphia club would on the Chicago was composed of his nephew support Mr. Dreyfus, of the Louisvilles, in any effort he might make to secure justice. Colonel Rogers intimated that when the twelve-club league contract expires the "whip crackers" in the present situation will not be such a power.

I do not think Mr. Becker can be judged by the same code of ethics as some others in the National League, who made a threat to discipline at the late League meeting, and are trying to carry out that threat by persecution, misrepresentation and newspaper statements that are the reverse of truth and calculated only to widen the breach that now seems irreparable between the faction that favors confiscation of clubs and club property and the honest men who try such underhand work."

Browns Will Not Play in St. Louis. ST. LOUIS, March 28 .- Edward C. In the course of a talk on baseball matters he said: "It is Mr. Robison's intention, as well as my own, to bring last year's Cleveland team to St. Louis in a body. The old organization has been wiped out and no players will be retained to remind the faithful "fans," of the past days. Mr. Robison and myself are of the opinion that the old Cleveland team is plenty strong enough to represent St. Louis with credit in the coming campaign and none of the old Browns will be given a berth."

"Oom Paul," the seventyfour-year-old President of the South African republic, has done absolutely nothing since the Jameson raid to strengthen his position by a policy of conciliation. TELEGRAPHY WIRELESS

SIGNOR MARCONI'S SYSTEM SUCCESS-FULLY TESTED AGAIN.

Message Printed in the London Time That Was Sent Boulogne-Sur-Mer to the South Foreland.

LONDON, March 29.-Gulletmo Marconi, the inventor, who recently, after long delay, obtained permission from the French government to establish a station on the French coast for the purpose of experimenting with wireless telegraphing between England and France, announces that he has conducted successful experiments between the south foreland, County of Kent and Boulogne, at the mouth of the Lianne. The Times this morning prints a hundred-word dispatch, the first press message by the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy, describing the experiments between the south foreland and Boulogne, Sur-Mer. The experiments were conducted with the Morse code, which was read as distinctly as if the termini had been connected by wires.

The South Foreland is the most easterly land in England, consisting of a chalky cliff about two hundred feet in height, projecting into the North sea, and having two lighthouses with an elevation of 372 feet. Signor Marconi, whose system of wireless telegraphy has been in practical operation off the English coast for several months between the South Foreland lighthouse and the East Goodwin lightship, a distance of twelve miles, had considerable difficulty in obtaining the consent of the French government to his proposal to establish communication of this nature between the Engsurrounding the death of Thomas Pinckey, lich and French coasts. About a month ago, however, M. Lockroy, French minister of marine, consented to a test to be made between Dover and Calais or Folkstone and Cape Gris Nez, the distance in each case being about twenty miles. The distance from South Foreland lighthouse to Boulogne sur Mer is thirty-two miles, the greatest previous distance covered having been the eighteen miles between Poole and Bournemouth, in England. An experience of fourteen months had shown him that no kind of weather in England would stop the working of his apparatus. The vertical conductor he uses is the main feature of his system, and he has found that the distance to which signals may be sent varies according to the square of the length of this conductor. For signaling eighteen miles he used a conductor eighty feet high, and in his application to M. Lockroy be contended that with a conductor 114 feet high he could establish communication be tween points on opposite sides of the Strait of Dover, and even go that distance ten miles better. His experiments have already proved that when such a vertical wire or conductor is employed no hindrance to signaling is caused by hills or other obstacles, or by the curvature of the earth. One of his most interesting and valuable experiments was the installation fitted up last autumn between Osborne House, Isle of Wight, and the royal yacht on which the Prince of Wales was recuperating after his accident. This gave an opportunity to study the effect of intervening hills, and as the yacht moved about to various positions doubts were set at rest as to the possibility of telegraphing across the long stretches of land. Communication between light ships and shore is a matter of great importance and the wireless system between South Foreland lighthouse and East Goodwin light ship worked all through the fierce storms of the latter part of February without interruption, the messages being flashed continually from ship to shore and vice versa. Signor Marconi is much the most successful experimenter among the many who have worked along this same line. He is now it his twenty-sixth year. He is an Italian, and it was in Italy that he began his special work. The Italian government paid him a large sum of money for his invention to be used on war ships. From Italy he went to England and his success there has already interested Emperor William, who has instructed German experts to experiment with German army and navy. He recently, in the | worth." course of a lecture on the system, illustrated its principle by likening it to that upon which a tuning fork will respond to vibrations caused by striking another tuning fork near it.

The ballot, the sixtieth of the session, resulted: Quay, 87; Jenks, 69; Dalzell, 51. Total votes cast, 207; necessary to a choice, 104. absent and not voting, 46. The Quay followers claim that the action of the antis to-day will benefit the ex-senator, but the antis deny this and say there will be no desertions from their ranks. An informal conference of friends of Senator Quay was held to-night at the executive mansion to discuss the senatorial situation. Senator Penrose was present. It was de cided that Mr. Quay would remain a candidate for United States Senator, and if there is no election by the present Legislature, to submit the question to the people in the election of the members of the Legislature two years hence. Mr. Quay's friends deny to-night that there are any signs of a break

The legislative committee investigating the charges of alleged bribery in connection with the consideration by the House of the McCarrell jury bill and the balloting for United States senator held sessions this afternoon and evening and some interesting testimony was presented. Several of the members admitted that office offers had been tendered them for their votes. Representative Kendall, of Somerset, testified that a resident of Bedford county, not a member of the Legislature, had told him that if he could see his way clear to vote for Quay for United States senator he would receive $5,000. He declined to name the man.

Representative Laubach, of Philadelphia testified that a man named Frank Jones, of Philadelphia, told him that if he would vote for Quay, he (Laubach) could have the chief clerkship of the mint or the custom house. that a man had offered him $200 to remain away on the day of the first joint ballot for United States senator. When he refused, the offer was raised to $300 and he was told that if he would go into the convention and vote for Quay the price would "be altogether dif-All the offers were refused. Mr. Brown declined to give the name of the man to the committee. The committee insisted and finally Brown said that the person who nade tim the offer was ex-Congressman Monroe H. Kulp, of Shamokin.

Another New Party Proposed. CHICAGO, March 28 .- A special to the and the latter was twice stabbed in the Tribune from Omaha credits J. Sterling Morton with the intention of forming a new political party which he declares will be the greatest political organization since the formation of the Republican party. Discussing the proposed new party and the side lights likely to develop therefrom, Mr. Morton says: "I have the utmost faith in the plan. A party will be organized July 4 that will stand for conservatism pre-eminently No doubt the platform will contain some elements common to all parties, but the keynote will be conservatism. There is a vast field for the new party's operations. The late war and its momentous issues, the struggle of the two great parties over bimetallism, the rise, decline and absolute decay of populism, all these elements con tribute to a situation as pregnant as those which gave birth to the Republican party on the approach of our civil strife. My in vestigation teaches me that the time is ripe do not care to pose particularly as th head of the new movement, therefore I will not at the present time go into details. But I will say before July 4 a call will be issued outlining the plan and it will be signed by men of national fame and of tried political

Ohio Election Law Decision. COLUMBUS, O., March 28.-The Supreme Court to-day affirmed the decision of the Cuyahoga county courts that city boards of election cannot exercise jurisdiction outside the limits of cities. State Supervisor of Elections Kinney said: "The effect of the decision is to oust the boards of election in Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo from exercising any supervision in conducting elections in that portion of the counties outside the limit of the cities named. There will, however, be no order of entry by the court until after the April election, consequently the present boards will conduct the elections next Monday as heretofore.'

CORNWALL, Ont., March 28.-The Indians of the St. Regis and Cornwall island reserves have refused to obey government regulations for holding elections for five chiefs for a period of two years. They desire to return to the old custom of electing their own chiefs, twelve in number, for life. In August last the Indians refused to allow the election to proceed. Yesterday another attempt was made to hold an election under government authority. Indian Agent Long, Inspector Hogan and Officer Chamberlain, with assistants, arrived here, but were refused admittance to the building where the election was being held. The police were assaulted. Long was secured and locked up and the police were driven away. Inspector Hogan returned to Ottawa to report. One-third of the Indians, the inspector says, were from the American reservation at Hogansburg, N. Y. The tribe became infuriated, and, with visions of the war path before them, they fought like Quarrel Over the Santiago Naval Battle and "Knife" Each Other.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 28.-The crews of the American fleet ashore on leave started rioting among themselves last night over an old feud about the flagship New York's absence from the fighting at the battle of Santiago de Cuba. The trouble lasted over two hours before the officers and police succeeded in suppressing it. Several men were slightly wounded. Green and Acmstead, of the Texas, were the most seriously injured. The former had his bowels ripped side. Both men are in the hospital, where they are pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. The wounds were inflicted by a colored man named Johnson, also of the Texas, who is a Jamaican born. He was surrendered by the police and is now in double irons on board his ship. All is quiet to-day. The Governor of Jamaica, Sir Augustus Hemming, received Rear Admiral Sampson this morning and returned the latter's visit
